LOCAL-MISCELLANY,

DOG-CATCHER McQUADE IN THE TOMBS.

Coroner Merkle yesterday concluded the inquest in the case of James Doyle, the boy who was shot by Terence McQuade, the dog-catcher, on August 10 at Fifth-ave, and One-hundred-and-sixteenth-st. The first witness testified that McQuade, Archibald Madison, Frederick Fricke and Hugh Blainey, his assistants, drove up Fifth-ave, on the morning of the murder. Fricke caught a dog, and eight or ten boys threw stones at the dog-catchers. A shot was fired from the wagon and the Doyle boy fell. The witness could not say which of the men fired the shot. Edward Kelly testified that McQuade flourished a pistol twice and threatened to shoot some of the boys. The wagon had driven off about 100 feet when the shot was fired. The witness helped to carry the Doyle boy into his father's house. Thomas Doyle, father of the murdered boy, identified Madison as the man whom he captured. The jury rendered a verdict that James Doyle came to his death by a pistol shot wound at the hands of Terence McQuade, and added: "We censure in the strongest terms possible the mode of dog-catching now in vogue, which we consider licensed stealing. We hereby respectfully call the earliest attention of the Mayor and Board of Aldermen to the flagrant abness committed under the present system of dog-catching which has aiready led to bloodshed, and we would ask them to devise some means to abrogate this great evil."

McQuade was sent to the Tombs to await the action of the Grand Jury, and Madison, Frieke and Blainey were sent to the Hoase of Detention as witnesses. DOG-CATCHER MCQUADE IN THE TOMBS.

OBREIGHT STILL IN THE ASYLUM.

Samuel Obreight's attorney will make a motion to-day in the Supreme Court, Chambers, to have the report of Referee Buck confirmed, and for an order discharging Obreight from the Middletown Lunaite Asylum. The attorney, Aarton Kahn, obtained yesterday from Justice Dononne an order to show cause, drawn in the usual form and made returnable to-day. A clause was added to the order directing the authorities of the asylum to release Obreight at once. This clause escaped the notice of Justice Donohue, Mr. Kahn orderined a certified copy of the order, and, as he stated, sent it to Middletown to have it served. As soon as Judge Donohue heard of what Mr. Kahn had done, he telegraphed to Middletown that Obreight should not be released until some further order on his part. He also sent for Mr. Kahn, who made such explanations about the clause added to the order as he thought best. Mr. Kahn afterward telegraphed to Middletown not to have the order served.

COMPLICATIONS OF THE HEAD-TAX LAW. COMPLICATIONS OF THE HEAD-TAX LAW.

A new complication has suddenly appeared in the enforcement of the Head-tax law upon immigrants arriving at United States ports from foreign countries. The law provides for the collection of 50 cents for each alien passenger landed by any steam or sailing vessel, from foreign ports, at any United States port. This tax is collected and paid to the Collector of the Port, and yesterday Deputy-Collector Wynkoop ruled that the act must be interpretediterally, in view of this ruling the Messrs, Alexandre, owners of the Havana and Mexican Lines, were informed that they must pay 50 cents for each andre, owners of the Havana and Mexican Lines, were informed that they must pay 50 cents for each of the twenty-nine alien cabin passengers who arrived on the steamship City of Alexandria, a week ago, and for each of the forty-four alien cabin passengers who arrived on the City of Washington on Wednesday. Portions of the factory walls fell upon the chair factory of Police Commissioner Joel W. Mason, at No. 396 Madison-st, and the building was threatened with destruction for a time. Jacob Henckel's cigar-box factory in Monroe-st, was saved from the flames with difficulty. While the brothers W. J. and E. R. Morris, who are charged with a felonious assault upon Henry Hyman and A. R. Clute in a private cottage in Bath, L. I., have not been arrested, it is believed that the police know where they are. Detective Zundt, of Brooklyn, upon examining their room in Mr. Orr's cottage, to which they fled after stabbing Messrs. Hyman and Clute in the back, found that blood-stains covered nearly everything. Every towel had been used to staunch wounde, and it was supposed that E. R. Morris, who stabbed Mr. Hyman with a knife, had cut himself with the same weanon. Detective Zandt, in pursuing his inquiries, found a sister of the Morrises in Brooklyn. He also learned that when the two men fled one of them was severely wounded, and it is believed that they are at a hotel at some distance from the city, and out of the State. As their victims are recovering, it is expected that they intend to return to meet the legal penalty of their acts.

NOT EASILY PUT OUT.

Sulzer's Harlem River Park was again crowded yesterday with Germans who had gathered to attend the Plattdentsche festival. It was the last of the four days' picule. The exercises during the day incinded games, tableaus and music by the combined societies' bands. In the evening there were fireworks and dancing, the entire grounds bring brilliantly illuminated. The crowds of Germans were very orderly and well-behaved. The report of a disturbance early yesterday morning appeared to have a very small foundation in fact. Detective Smith, of the Twelfith Precinct Police, said that he was present and saw the whole case. An unusually portly German had drumk more than was good for him, and began to behave boisterously near the pavilion. When two officers were assisting him to leave the grounds, the German sat down and refused to get up. On account of his weight it was difficult to eject nime from the grounds, but at length sufficient force was procured and he was sent away. He lost his hat and made very vehement demands to be permitted to go back for it. But he was pinced upon a car and sent down town. He was not even disorderly enough to justify his being arrested and locked up.

Probably the most successful begging swindlers operating in this city are those who are able to shed real tears white telling lying stories of mistortune. About two months ago a reporter of The Tribune met one of these beggars, a man about forly-live years old, of slim build, with white chin whiskers, near Madison-ave, one afternoon, and was so impressed with the man's apparent honesty in saying that he could not get work, and of his desire to go to Albany to find work among some farmer acquaintances, that he found himself $2$ poorer after the interview. The beggar was so thoroughly a professional, and had worked the game on so many, that he did not recognize his former victim as he repeated his story on a Brooklya ferry-boat on Wednesday night. He was reminued of the fact, and told that his victim considered it his duty to give him a chance to work for his living for a time. Although the swindler had only a moment before declared he had eaten nothing for twenty-four hours, he immediately offered the reporter $1.75 to let him off; but upon the arrival of the boat on the New-York side he was handed to a policeman. Yesterday morning formal complaint was made against the man at the Tombs, when the Justice gave him TRYING HIS GAME ON THE WRONG MAN. terday norning formal compiaint was made against the man at the Fombs, when the Justice gave him six months in the Peniteariary, and said that he would be glad to serve more street swindlers in the

STRANGE CONDUCT OF A MAN FROM MOBILE.

A large man, with a carly black wig, and a very red face, walked into Inspector Thorne's room at Poince Headquarters yesterday about 5 o'clock. He carried a cane, which he waved with much viger. He informed the Inspector that he was from Mobile. Alabama, and that he was sent by the Treasury Department at Washington to examine into the workings of the Police Department of New-York. Seeing that his visitor was drank, the Inspector went away and left him. The man then went out of the building and began a quarrel with a crowd of boys, one of whom he struck. He remarked in a loud voice that he had been covered with blood, and got a bystander to feel of the place on his nose where he had been struck. A large crowd was attracted by the antics of the man, and he began to scatter money among them. This drew a much larger crowd, and in a few moments the streets were blocked. No one seemed to know who the stranger was or where he came from. He had taken a cab at the New-York Hotel, and putting a ragged boy in with him had ordered the driver to take him to the Police Headquarters. When the boy got out the Alabamian gave him $2 for his company. When last seen the mebriated man was going down Bleeckerst. Showering pennies to the mutained that thronged about him. name, he left the hall, changed his hat and coat, and again took his place in line. He then gave the name of Matthew Munden. He was challenged by Joseph Reeve and took the oath. When asked his home, he said he lived in "Mike" Dady's house. Mr. Dady said he did not know him, and Kiersted then confessed that he was hired to personate Munden by Peter Larkin, and that he did not know that he had to swear that his name was Munden. Kiersted pleaded guilty yesterday, but the case was adjourned, as he had no counsel. He had been out of work for some time. Efforts will be made to arrest those who induced him to commit perjary. Complaint was made to Mayor Low yesterday by James McDermott that policesnen worked for the success of the Dady ticket at the primary election on Wednesday evening. The Mayor requested him to put his complaint in written form.

This city and the great Northwest caught the heat yesterday in a manner not at all pleasant. There was a fresh wind blowing here alternately from the south and west, but it brought very little relief to the thomsands who toiled in worksheps and narrow streets. At Cheyenne the mercury stood at 90°, the same as at Charleston, S. C., and at Deadwood it reached 92°. At North Platte the thermometer registered 93°, the same temperature as at Vicksburg. In the Lake region it was cooler, the mercury stonding at 64° at Port Huron, 68° at Rochester and 63° at Milwankee, At Dodge City, Kan., the mercury stood at 80°. The reports from all over the country are of fresh winds and lair weather. SUSPENSION OF EXCHANGE MEMBERS. SUSPENSION OF EXCHANGE MEMBERS.
The Board of Managers of the Produce Exchange held a long meeting yesterday, their time being engaged principally apon the investigation of the charges made against Dunean R. Norveil and William H. Fox for a grievous violation of the rules in the use of scandaious and provoking language by the latter, and the resentment by the former with a blow of his fist in the face of Mr. Fox, and drawing blood. This occurred on Tuesday. Mr. Norveil and Mr. Fox were permitted to repeat their statements made to the Complaint Committee on Wednesday, and Alexander H. Mann was called as a witness. After a long discussion by the members of witness. After a long discussion by the members of the Board, a vote was taken, which resulted in the suspension of Mr. Norvell for seven days and of Mr. Fox for twenty days. The sympathy of the mem-bers of the Exchange was given free vent after the decision was announced, and appeared to be mostly for Mr. Norved.

COMPLAINTS TO THE BOARD OF HEALTH.

Numbers of complaints have been sent to the Board of Health recently about the ringing of church-bells, barking of dogs, screaming of parrots and crowing of chickens. The sanitary officials who have been investigating these complaints said yesterday that they were too trivial to require the attention of the board. One or two persons with sensitive ears presumed to speak for an entire neighborhood in condemnation of noises which did not disturb others. The board, it was said, could not undertake to promote petty feuds by taking notice of all such complaints. A man recently sent a letter to the board complaining that he and his neighbors were kept awake by chickens crowing in a coop in a rear yard. The inspector who investigated the complaint learned that the neighbors liked to hear the fowls in the morning (the only time when the crowing occurred), but the complainant kept late hours and did not like to be disturbed. Another man recently asked the sanitary authorities to put a stop to the mecssant playing of a pane by the pupils of a music teacher. A young woman's attempt at operatic singing in a liarlem house brought out a complaint from a nervous deutist. The discordant cry of an on-named bird in Seventy-third-st. near Third-ave., was mentioned in a letter of complaint which was sent to the Health Department yeaterday. A clerk in the department said yesterday: "Most of these letters show that the writers are cranks who wish to get some cheep notoriety for themselves and to make trouble for their neighbors."

Sanitary Superintendent Day denied yesterday that a complaint had been filed with the Board of Health protesting against the continuous ringing of a bell in the Home for the Aged, at Third-ave, and Seventreli-st. He saut that had such a complaint been made to him he would have refused to make it public. A Tringence reporter called at the Home for the Aged and was informed that the Sisters had received several complaints from persons who live in the neighborhood about the COMPLAINTS TO THE BOARD OF HEALTH.

Four persons living in Seventy-first-st, pronounced the ringing of the bells to be a nui sance

the noise. They complained that the bells awoke

Ignations B. Mercadante, a wealthy Italian importer of foreign fruits, at No. 126 Pearl-st., who lives at No. 415 East One-hundred-and-twentieth-st., went to Police Headquarters on Monday and imprimed Inspector Byrnes that he had received a threatening letter from unknown persons who were trying to blackmail him. He showed the letter, which had been mailed on Thursday at an uptown box, and which was in the Italian language. The following translation was made by Detective-Sergeant Tessaro:

Signor Mercadante:

The crinical position in which certain individuals find themselves at present prompts the belief that you might help them out by giving them, without asking questions, the sum of $500, considering that you. Mr. Mercadante, probably care a good deal for your life and your position. We will send you a man with a signal which you will understant. He will come to you in the street, at your house or at your office, either night or day, at the moment when you least expect idua, and will ask you for the money. You will have it in your pocket in $5 bills remiy to give to the man, who will offer you a pistol cartridge. We hope that you will not refuse this our request and will not attempt to put any trouble in our way, because at the sligatest infination of treachery we will put a darger in your heart.

Mr. Mercadante said he had no knowledge of a conspiracy against him, except the letter. The Inspector detailed Detective Sergeant Tessaro to follow Mr. Mercadante about and to arrest any person who should attempt to extort money from him in the instructor in the latter.

Tessaro is a large and powerful man who has made himself useful in the detective office on account of his knowledge of the Italian language and character. The blackmailers made no attempt to approach Mr. Mercadante while Tessaro was m sight, but at 8 a.m. yesterday one of them rung the bell at No. 415 East One hundred-and-twentieth-st. He was a short, muscular Italian of thirty, who had the look of a brigand. Another Italian, younger but equally vicious in appearance, kept watch from the opposite side of the street. Mr. Mercadante opened the door of his house and was recognized instantly by his visitor, who handed to him an envelope without saying a word. The envelope contained a large pistoi cartridge and a note which read as follows:

which read as follows:

Signor Mercadanic:
You will give to the bearer the amount you know of. Otkerwise, as you are aware, marm will come to you.
The writing was Italian, with red ink, on green tinted paper. Mr. Mercadante put the note and the cartridge into his pocket, and said: 'I accept the token, but I have not the money here. Come to my office at 1 o'clock this afternoon." The visitor's face showed that he was not pleased, but he answered, "All right," and then went away.

Mr. Mercadante went to Police Headquarters and told Sergeant Bird what had happened. Tessaro was sent with the importer to the Partial office.

Mr. Mercadante went to Police Headquarters and told Sergeant Bird what had happened, Tessaro was sent with the importer to the Peari-st, office, and about noon beliective-Sergeant Kush was sent to watch the street in front of the office. Promptly at 1 p. m. the Italian who had given Mr. Mercadante the pistol-cartridge presented himself at the office and asked to see the importer, who did not desire to face the man a second time. Tessaro asked the visitor what he wanted to see Mr. Mercadante for, and the man replied that he was looking for work. The officer then arrested him, and was surprised when he searched him that no dagger was conceated in his clothing. The prisoner gave his name as Gaetano Ruggero, and said he was a fruit-pedier at No. 4 Mott-st. In the street Kush had seen the prisoner taking with a man who appeared to be a confederate, and who remained leaning against a column of the elevated railroad on the watch, while Ruggero went into the office. Kush arrested the man, who said that he was Gaetano di Lorenzo, a laborer living in Carlisie-st. Both prisoners are natives of Palermo, Sicily. They denied yesterday that they knew each other or that they were engaged in any attempt at blackmail. They were locked up at Police Headquarters after they had been taken to the Tombs Police Court, and remanded until to-day. The police think that the prisoners are not the only persons engaged in the consoirace and they accept to make other arrests.

DEARTH OF NEWS AT CASTLE GARDEN. DEARTH OF NEWS AT CASTLE GARDEN.
Castle Garden was never more devoid of news since it has been a landing-place for immigrants than it was yesterday. The only item of interest was a mandate from Superintendent Jackson, upon authority from the Board, to Superintendent O'Brien, at Ward's Island, to "deliver to bearer" four fat pigs, and receive in exchange twenty-live small pigs. This transaction had no perceptible effect on prices for hog products on the Produce Exchange.

THE PEACH MARKET OFERSTOCKED.

HOW THE FRUIT IS HANDLED-THE PROFIT TO THE GLOWERS AND THE MIDDLEMEN-DESIRABLE

VARIETIES.

In consequence of the unexpectedly early ripening of the fruit, the peach market is now overstocked. The reports indicate that this will be the case for several days. On Tuesday it took eighty-eight cars on the Pennsylvana Railroad to bring in the peaches for that day; Wednesday it required eighty-two cars, and yesterday the same number was expected. Each car holds 500 baskets of twenty quarts each. The great quantity of peaches comes from a section of Delaware and Maryland called the Pennsula. The great orchards are in, towns along the line of the Delaware branch of the Pennsylvania Railroad. Peach farms range in size from twenty to one thousand acres. One hundred trees are planted to the acre. All the fruit is forwarded on consignment. It is disposed of by the consignees, the expenses of transportation are deducted, and the remainder, less a commission of 10 per cent, is sent to the grower. grower.

Mr. Entwisle, of the firm of Entwisle & Co., No. 103 Park-place, said to a lunune reporter Wednesday that the Pennsylvania Railroad, which carries almost the entire peach crop, estimated that this year's growth would reach five million baskets. The commission dealers believe that the crop will not exceed four million baskets. The varieties now coming into the market are Troths and Yorks. There are a few Early Crawfords, but not many. It is a singular fact that the varieties of peaches that blossom first ripen latest, and those that blossom latest ripen the earliest. The Troths are a small bright-looking peach, with a white interior and are rather dry. The Yorks are light-skinned and very juicy. Both of these varieties are used chiefly for the table. The Oid Moxons and the Early and Late Crawfords are much larger and finer varieties. These are chiefly used for making the finest preserves. They will be in the market in great profusion in ten days or two weeks. Housekeepets will make preparations to put up a great quantity of these varieties this year, because the fruit probably will be very cheap. A variety called Smocks is especially used for canning. The Troths and Yorks command from 50 cents to $1 a basket. In large transactions they have been sold for 40 cents. The low price is due entirely to the overstocked condition of the market. The fruit is here and must be sold.

or 40 cents. The low price is due entirely to the overstocked condition of the market. The fruit is here and must be sold.

There is a large business conducted in the peach country called "drying." It is a process by which the fruit is sliced thin and preserved by drying, so that it can be kept indefinitely. The dried fruit is nighly regarded and is a staple article of trade. The dryers pay 25 cents a basket for the peaches at the farms. Some of the large commission houses here are John Nix & Co., who are said to handle the whole of Governor Cocheran's crop; Titus Brothers, R. S. Cocheran, and Haver & Co. There are about one hundred in the trade. The sale of fruit begins at about 3 o'clock in the morning and continues until the whole or as much as possible is disposed of. Early Crawfords are now bringing high prices simply because they are scarce. In ten days or two weeks from now they will be as pientiful and as cheap as the Troths and Yorks are now. Peaches were somewhat higher yesterday, and will be still more expensive to-day. An advance of 25 cents on a basket and 50 cents on a crate was noted in Washington Market yesterday. The Early Crawford varieties were excellent fruit, and commanded a quick sale at $1 25 a basket. The dealers stated yesterday that they had expected this advance in prices just as soon as the present overstocked market became a little relieved. The growers will refuse to send on the fruit unloss they can get 25 cents a basket at their farms from the dryers, who often contract for entire crops where the variety and quality suit them. Their policy, the dealers said, had been to have the present overstocked market became a little relieved. The growers to this market, because they were so plentiful that they compelled a reduction in prices. This enabled the dryers to make better bargains with the growers, as the Pennsylvania Railroad chargod 18 cents a basket for transportation from the farms to Jersey City, and 4 cents a basket was paid for carrying the fruit aeross the ferry to the piace got from the dryers at their own farms. The dealers asserted that the drying business must, to a certain degree, regulate and keep up the prices of peaches in this market.

WHAT MAYOR DE BEVOISE SAYS.

The vacancies in the Police Board of Long Island City have all been filled, Owen Ciarke of Hunter's Point having accepted the nomination tendered him and taken the oath of office. Mayor De Bevoise is still very retuent as to what action he intends taking in regard to the petitions presented to him asking him to close the pool rooms or resign. He expressed his confidence yesterday that the people of the city would sustain him as they have frequently done before, and he was satisfied to leave the whole matter to his constituents, as he believed that time would aims the present excitement in the city and public opinion would then justify his official conduct. He does not express any intention of resigning.

The Excise Commissioners have presented a list of names of persons who are selling inquor without licenses in Long Island City to the Police Commis-sioners, and they request the police authorities to arrest all dealers found violating the law in this

HOUSES ROBBED IN HARLEM.

A good many robberies of empty houses have been reported in Harlem in the last few weeks. Families leave the city without properly securing their houses and sneak-thieves enter by a back window or door and carry off everything they can before their depredations are discovered by the police. It was reported that the house of Mr.Van Slyck, of No. 338 Broadway, situated in Madison-ave., near One-hundred-and-twenty-third-st., had been entered by thieves yesterday while the family were away in the country. Sergeant Carpenter, of the One-hundred-and-twenty-sixth Street Police, at once took, steps to secure the house against any further robbery, and telegraphed the facts to Mr. Van Slyck. It could not be ascertained last night how much property had been stolen.
